the four

by dragongirl582

Category: Criminal Minds, How to Train Your Dragon
Genre: Angst, Mystery
Language: English
Characters: D. Morgan, E. Prentiss, Hiccup, S. Reid
Status: In-Progress
Published: 2013-10-27 15:48:19
Updated: 2014-10-02 22:41:50
Packaged: 2016-04-26 15:21:43
Rating: K+
Chapters: 4
Words: 1,544
Publisher: www.fanfiction.net
Summary: a Big four story when the team finds something strange during a raid,)being continued by TheBarfly001)

1. Chap 1

"Alright team,on the count of three we go in"

Muttered Hotch as he took out his gun,

''1"

the rest of the team took out their weapons.

"2"

Reid finally took his own weapon out.

"3"

"GO GO GO!"

Morgan kicked the door down,they all expected to find their killer on the other side,but instead they saw something strange...

2. Chapter 2

Reid stared at the animal with wide eyes. It was black and had wings. But the man noticed a saddle and a red left tail fin which was red and had a Viking Jolly Roger on it. The beast growled a little as he approached Spencer. Morgan saw this and drew his weapon, but the dragon snarled and got ready to pounce. "Derek, please put it down!", Spencer exclaimed. Derek trusted his friend and lowered his gun. The dragon suddenly dropped his temper and sat down, eyes dilated. Hotch was astonished at this. "Reid," the chief spoke up, "we know this...dragon did not kill these people. But since there is a saddle, we cannot rule out the rider." Reid nodded, and as he did, a loud crash and some yelling were heard out side.

The team stepped out to find two young men fighting each other. One of them was covered in blood. "Where is she?!", the none-bloodied one yelled. "I'll never tell you!", the bloodied man spat. Morgan and Rossi dashed in and broke up the fight. The bloody man was cuffed while the other man wasn't, since he was being restrained by Hotch. The uncuffed man was wearing a leather suit with the same Viking Jolly Roger on his shoulder. He had spiky yet long hair with two braids on his head. His green eyes certainly complimented that. The bloodied man was wearing a horned helmet and had a scar on his face. "What are your names?", Rossi asked them. "Hiccup Horrendous Haddock III.", the man in leather stated. "Dagur the Deranged.", the bloodied man stated as well. Emily asked Dagur, "Did you kill all those innocent people?" "Indeed I did!", Dagur replied, having no guilt. "Where's Astrid?!", Hiccup yelled. Dagur answered, "She'll die before you find her!" Hiccup had enough it.

He lunged forward and punched Dagur in the face. Hotch pulled him away as the dragon ran over towards them. "Toothless!", Hiccup called to the dragon. Toothless pounced on Dagur, but Hiccup stopped him. "Who's Astrid?", Derek asked Hiccup. "My girlfriend!", Hiccup replied. Emily then yelled from the house, "I found her!" She brought out a young woman who was wearing shoulder plates and a spiky skirt. Her hair was blonde with a bang over her left eye and braided behind her head down to her back. Hiccup ran over to her and hugged her tightly. "What happened, Astrid?", he asked with worry. She shook as she answered with a stutter, "He tried to..." She didn't finish, but Hiccup notice her skirt was damaged. His eyes went as he hugged her even tighter. "Dagur tried to take advantage of her.", whispered Prentiss to Rossi.

A few hours later, Toothless was romping around the grounds of the Quantico headquarters. Hiccup was watching his every move to make sure he didn't hurt someone by accident. He turned around in response to a tap on his shoulder. It was Morgan. He told Hiccup, "Dagur's dead. He snapped his own neck in the interrogation room." Hiccup was surprised to hear this, but then again Dagur was a homicidal maniac. He just nodded, acknowledging it. The door at the building entrance opened to reveal four people pushing a bed on wheels. There was a black bag, with the outline of a body that Hiccup could see. Then Astrid came out and ran over to Hiccup. She pulled him into a kiss that pulled him into a trance. Derek just smiled and proceeded to walk off, leaving the two alone.

Toothless decided to run over to Morgan just to be sure he was friendly. The man looked at the dragon and asked Hiccup, "How'd he lose his tail fin?" Hiccup pulled back a little and answered in guilt, "When we were at war with the dragons, I shot him down. After he fell, the force of his impact with the ground tore it off. The war was because of one large dragon that controlled the others. She forced them to bring back food to her, otherwise she'd kill them. They got the food by raiding us. Toothless and I defeated her, but that came at a price." He pointed to his prosthetic leg. Hotch came out to tell them important news. "The leader of our military would like to speak with you.", he said, "He wants you to demonstrate the supposed firepower of your friend." Hiccup was speechless.

3. Chapter 3

The land was dry and golden colored. That was all Hiccup and Toothless could see for miles and miles. "Alright, bud. You ready?", he asked his dragon friend. The Night Fury started to dive as Hiccup adjusted the tail fin. As they gained speed, the air rushing past created a shrieking sound as a target came into view. Toothless opened his mouth and a ball of purplish light shot out as a result. It came into contact with the target, creating a massive explosion. Then Hiccup and Toothless pulled out of the dive and leveled off to slow down. They landed with a soft thump on the ground. Only when the dust settled did they see that the target was completely destroyed. A sound of hands clapping made them turn around to see a man in a military suit. "Impressive.", he complemented. "Thank you, sir.", Hiccup replied. The general looked at the dragon and saw he was breathing rather heavily. "Toothless, what's wrong bud?", Hiccup asked his friend. Toothless suddenly dropped to the ground. "Toothless!", Hiccup cried in worry.

Toothless woke up in a room which was much cooler than the environment he'd just been in. He stood up and began to stretch his legs and wings. That was when he noticed that his saddle and prosthetic fin were removed. Then he saw his rider standing next to a door talking to someone. That person gave Hiccup a bucket of water and some fish. Toothless immediately started to chow down on it before Hiccup could even give it to him. Hiccup just chuckled and left his friend to enjoy his meal while he recovered from the heat stroke he suffered. It turned out Toothless didn't drink as much water as he should have. Night soon fell and Hiccup was standing outside breathing in the cool air. The door behind him opened revealing Toothless coming out to greet him. "Toothless!", Hiccup exclaimed, "You should be resting!" Toothless just snorted in reply. Then a soldier came out and told Hiccup, "Come with me, please." Hiccup followed him to the front of the military base. There was a vehicle with other soldiers waiting for them. Once they were inside the vehicle, the soldier asked Hiccup, "Do you like mead?" Hiccup nodded.

An hour later, they were all in front of a small building. They went inside to see what lay ahead. Hiccup saw people sitting along a counter drinking from what he thought were tankards. He and the soldiers soon found places to sit. They were served their drinks, but Hiccup had to choose his. "Mead, please.", he told the serving lady. The other patrons in the pub stopped what they were doing and they all looked at him. One of them got up and walked over to him. "Mead's for weaklings like yourself, peg leg.", the man taunted Hiccup. Hiccup corrected him saying, "I prefer peg FOOT." With that said, Hiccup grabbed his empty glass mug and smashed it against the bigger man's skull, knocking him unconscious in the process. Instantly, everyone in the bar started fighting each other, save for the staff and the soldiers who dragged Hiccup out of there, but not before he sustained a punch to the face. They all sped off in their vehicle back to the base. Hiccup looked back to see a person being tossed through a window. The soldiers laughed at the chaos that ensued.

Astrid was pacing back and forth, wondering when Hiccup and Toothless were coming back. Then she saw them come through a door. She hugged and kissed Hiccup as soon they saw each other. Toothless was still outside, since he couldn't fit through the door. "How was your week?", Hotch asked Hiccup. "It was good.", Hiccup half-lied, "Aside from being attacked in a beer hall." Astrid asked him, "How did that turn out?" Only then did she notice his black eye. She caressed his cheek in comfort. Then they turned their attention towards a screen showing a person talking about a ship that was attacked. Then it showed a large blue animal with wings attacking the same ship. It opened it mouth and released a sonic blast that capsized it. Hiccup tore his eyes away from the screen. All the others were looking at him.

4. sorry

ya isn't really an update but this story is being continued by TheBarfly001 so ya discontinued on my part...

End
file.